Universal Studios Singapore Set to Reopen Battlestar Galactica

February 21 Marks Official Public Kick-off for Guests

SINGAPORE – 02 FEBRUARY 2011 – Universal Studios Singapore announced today that Battlestar Galactica, a signature attraction in the Sci-Fi City zone, will reopen to the public on February 21, 2011.

Prior to February 21, Universal Studios Singapore will host a series of special events, including dedicated ride access times for team members of Resorts World Sentosa and invited guests from Panasonic, the ride's sponsor, as well as for annual pass holders. During this period, park guests may also be invited to ride on Battlestar Galactica as operational procedures are refined.

Mr John Hallenbeck, Vice President of Park Operations, Resorts World Sentosa, said: "Battlestar Galactica is a signature and prominent ride at Universal Studios Singapore and we are so excited about it taking to the skies again. We expect sellout crowds and are advising guests who have been waiting for Battlestar Galactica to book their February tickets in advance."

Battlestar Galactica, themed after the hit TV show about an on-going battle between Cylons and Humans, is comprised of both the suspended 'Cylon' coaster and the seated 'Human' coaster that chase each other on twisting integrated tracks. Riders on both coasters experience unbelievable thrills as they zoom, loop, turn and narrowly avoid collision.

The popular ride was closed shortly after the park's opening in March last year when a ride component failure was discovered on the 'Human' coaster during a routine safety check before park operating hours.

Universal Studios Singapore officials worked closely with Singapore authorities and theme park safety experts to determine the cause of the failure and to correct the fault. After months of re-engineering and many thousands of test cycles, Battlestar Galactica is ready to welcome riders once again.

Each Battlestar Galactica track is a kilometer-long and the ride takes approximately 90 seconds to complete. Tickets to Universal Studios Singapore can be booked online at www.rwsentosa.com
